AL. REICH MEETS
MORRIS TO-NIGHT

AL REICH—HOPE OF THE "WHITE HOPES"

Copyright, 1913, by The Press Publishing Co. (The New York World)

INTERESTING NOTES ABOUT AL REICH.

His height is 6 feet 2 inches; weight, 211-2 pounds stripped; reaches, 78 inches; age, 22 years. He has been amateur national and metropolitan heavyweight champion for two years, knocking out all opponents. In his first professional fight, last week, he stopped Sailor White in five rounds. As a member of the Irish-American A. C. Reich was a famous shot-putter, discus thrower and all-around athlete.

SOME POINTERS ABOUT CARL MORRIS.

Carl Morris is 6 feet 5 inches tall. He weighs 227 pounds stripped. Since his defeat in New York, Sept. 16, 1911, Morris has learned something about boxing and has won fights all over America. He is one of the best white heavyweights. If Reich, a novice, can fight Morris on anything like even terms it will mark him as the most promising of all the "white hopes." It is the big amateur's ambition to meet Gumbo Smith with as little delay as possible.

After Bout With Carl Morris
To-Night Al Reich Will Be Either a Very Real "Hope" or Another Fizzle.

THE hope of the "White Hopes" that's Al Reich to-day, tomorrow will be either a very real "Hope" or another fizzle. Until a week ago one Al was probably an unknown. He was a drab-class athlete, a shot-putter and discus thrower, and former and had won the National and Metropolitan heavyweight boxing championships for two years. But no one thought of him as a possible professional champion.

Al made his debut just a week ago yesterday. He was matched against McKay, the 6 feet 4 inch giant from Wimpy's. McKay must have been tipped off, for Reich was something of a fighter, and dodged the beats of the first round. Sailor White was without room. Everybody expected to see the sluggish sailor finish up the amateur in a couple of rounds or so.

To the amazement of no crowd, Al Reich boxed with the smoothness and skill of a veteran. He outrusted White with ease, stopping him in the fifth round. Simply stopping Sailor White wasn't such a great feat, but the mechanism in which the amateur went about his work made a tremendous hit. He was remarkably fast and in all straight and as hard as any of the heavyweights. His aggressive work was his defense. White fished, only to find himself brought up standing to heavy drives into the body or clipping upwards on the jaw.

Reich fought Carl Morris in the same bout tonight. This looks like a very poor piece of matchmaking on the part of his advisers. Morris, with his great height and weight and strength, and three years of hard experience in the ring, should be in easy to beat any amateur. But Reich insisted upon fighting Morris when the match was offered him. He wanted to meet Morris. His confidence is unlimited.

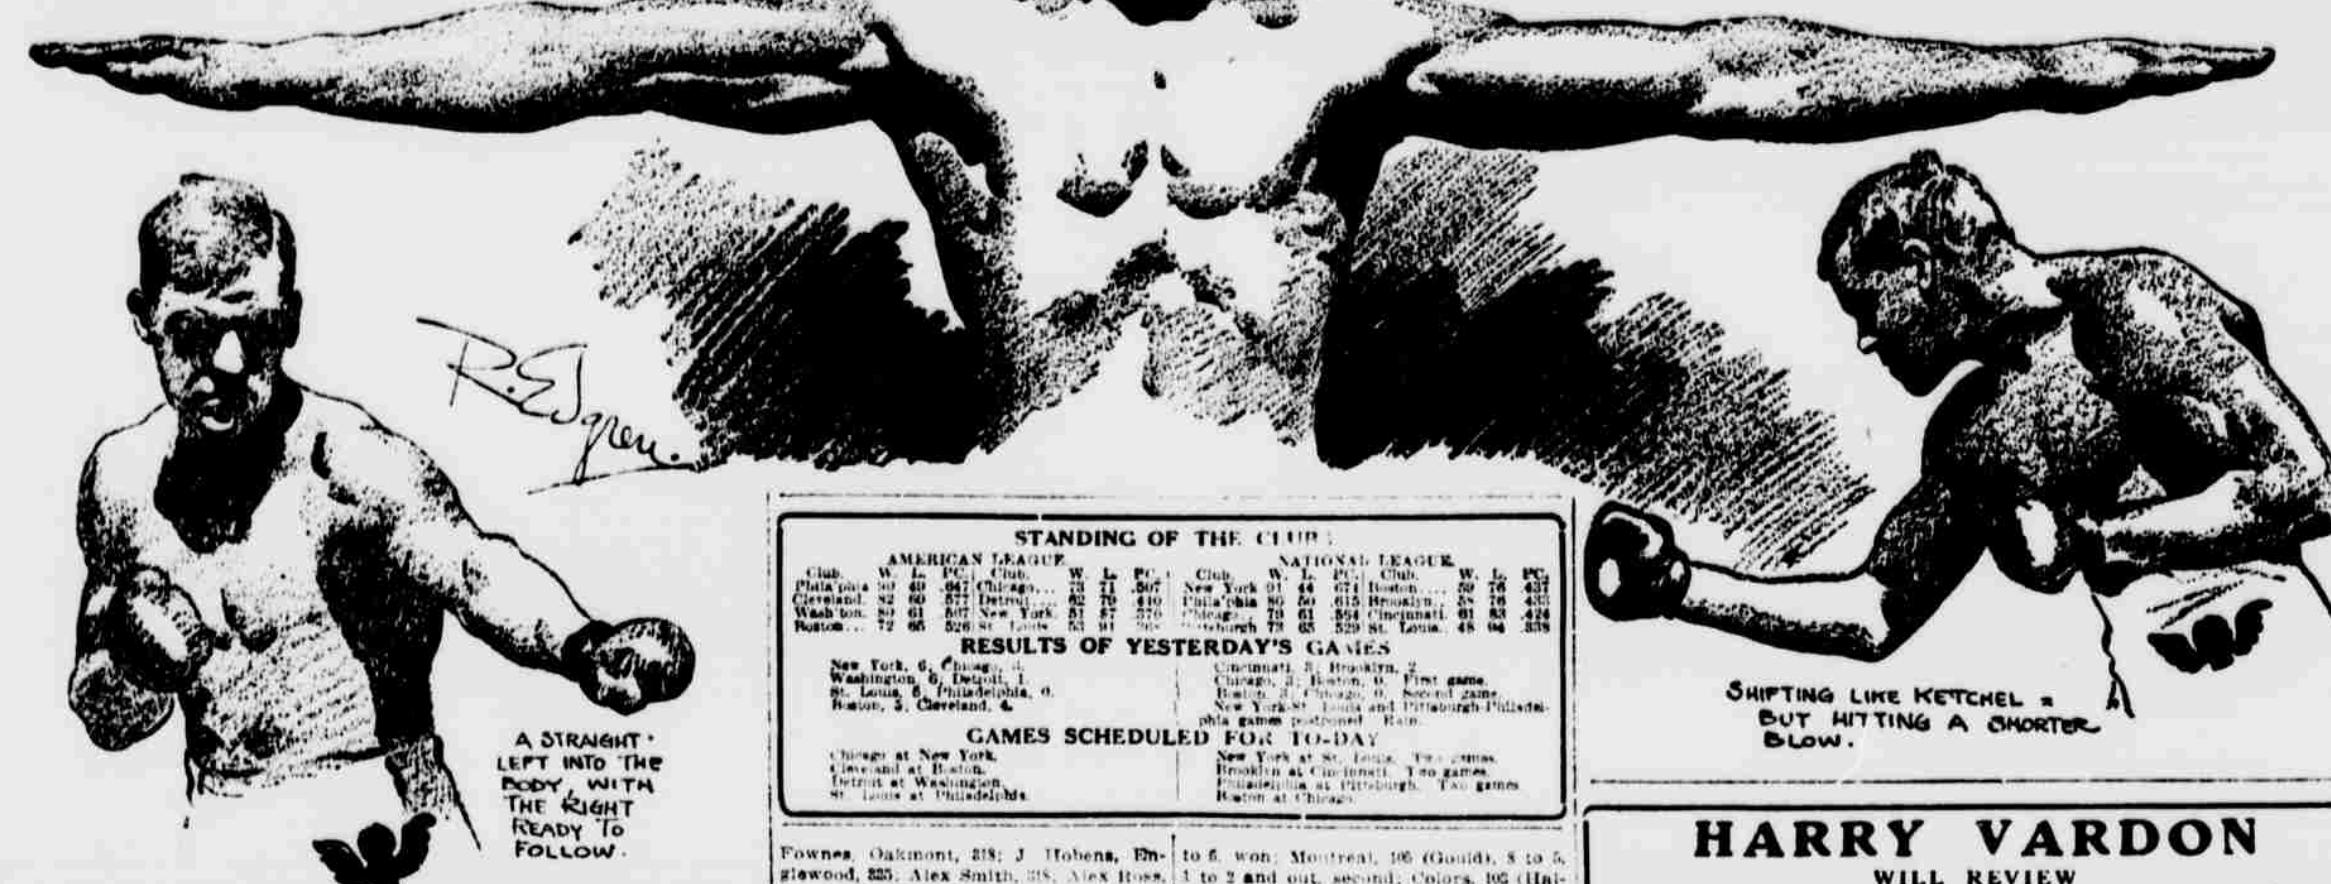

If Reich can beat Carl Morris it will mark him as by far the most promising of all the "white hopes." No other novice who has shown in the ring since Jeffries' time would have a chance to turn that trick. Morris himself has a pretty fair opinion of the boy he is going to fight. He sat close to the ring at the Reich-White affair and immediately after the ending of it walked to where I sat and said: "There's the coolest youngster I ever saw in a ring. He has a fighting head and he knows a little more about fighting than most fellows. I only wish I'd known half as much when I made my first appearance here against Flynn."

Physically Reich is a man in ten thousand. He is two inches over six feet, splendidly and symmetrically muscled, a trained athlete who looks about 180 pounds and weighs 212 stripped. He has more above the eyes than most of the heavyweights. He can think while in action. As an athlete Al put the shot 45 feet and threw the discus 125. He was a good jumper and all-around man. Nobody in the amateur ranks compared with him as a boxer. He won his bouts with ease. They tell a funny story about his recent experience in winning the national championship at Boston. It seems all the boxes used a common dressing room. There were several heavyweight entries. Reich was one of the first to strip, and while waiting to be called out to the ring he shadowboxed a little to warm up and take the kinks out. When he came out, the other boxers waited him out, then one by one silently faded out into the night. When the first heavyweight bout was called only one remained, a Boston policeman. He had nerve enough to fight Reich, and was knocked out in a round. With the fall of the "topper" Al found himself without any more amateurs to toy with, so he accepted a chance to go after the coin.

THE State Athletic Commission should start a useful little investigation into the way in which some clubs advertise the appearance of well-known boxers, sell tickets for their shows, and then banish the public by putting on inferior bouts. Night after last, for instance, the St. Nicholas A. C. was to have staged bouts between "Battling" Levinsky and Soloff, Krasno, and between Jim Savage and Jack Keating. As it happened, Krasno and Savage did not show up, so some unexplained reason. So instead of the bouts they had paid for—which must have been worth a dollar or two—the spectators were sent off with two whiskers'刮. Levinsky was put against an unknown boxer introduced as "Whale" Allen, who staggered helplessly through four or so rounds and Keating disposed of another poor job. Steve Kennedy, in two.

If you go into a bar and pay your money for a silver article and find that the proprietor has pulled off one of lead instead, you've got your money back or call in the police. There's no reason why persons of booking clubs should not have similar protection against being bilked. I hardly suggest that the Commission try to find some way to protect the public interests, even if it is necessary to revoke a few licenses and send a new sub-delegating bosses back to the bars.

really blew up and home players were put in the running.

OUIMET WAS AMERICA'S ONLY HOPE TO WIN.

The crowd, elated in the morning by the sudden change, lost its spirits in the afternoon when one American after another came in with high scores. Louis Teller of France for a brief spell seemed certain of success, but fell off at the end. O'Leary remained the only hope of beating the Englishmen.

Starting out last, the sensational amateur scared his gallery when he continually drove out of bounds and missed putting. Coming to the turn, Ouimet, with the lead at 72, with Fred Read still to be heard from.

Walter Hagen of Rochester had the best showing of the home players and came in two strokes behind Vardon and Ray.

Elmer Laving, paired with Vardon, led the famous Englishman in with a card of 56. Jerome J. Travers, amateur champion, could do better than 81 for a total of 21.

J. M. Barnes of Tacoma, the leading player of the Pacific Coast, kept in the running with a morning score of 78, three strokes in back of the leaders.

MCDONALD SMITH FAILS IN MORNING ROUND.

McDonald Smith, who had a chance to-day of winning, removed himself way from the front with a morning tally of 80.

Harry Vardon of England, in the four-round match of the morning found the mud very troublesome. Going out he took two 6s, giving him 41 at the turn. Returning he was in better form, and when he drove his second shot behind a tree.

Vardon's card:

Out 6 4 6 4 5 4 3 4 5-41

In 4 5 5 4 5 4 3 4 5-37-28

Lewis Teller of France, wasn't a bad horse and used up 8 strokes on morning rounds.

Morning scores, 18 holes: Harry Vardon, England, 41, 37-28; Edward H. Ross, England, 40, 35-26; W. H. Higgin, Rochester, 39, 37-31; J. A. Barnes, Tacoma, 41, 37-28; J. J. McBernard, Atlantic City, 38, 30-27; J. J. Sylvester, New York, 41, 46-37-29; G. Cummings, Royal Ottawa, 46, 42-38-38; E.
